School Profile

Community

Hyde Park is located in historic Dutchess County, central to the Hudson Valley, midway between New York City and Albany. The mere mention of Hyde Park conjures up visions of old-time wealth and fame—Roosevelt, Vanderbilt and Mills among others. Modern day Hyde Park is essentially a blend of suburban and rural lifestyles. The economy of the area is supported by both its service economy and high-tech electronics industry: IBM being the prominent local corporate business.

School Characteristics

The Hyde Park Central School District is a public school with a student population of 4,497. There is one high school, a middle school and five elementary schools. The high school houses grades nine through twelve with a current enrollment of 1,505. The high school professional staff number is 130.
